

W-JAX 2002: Conference on Web Services, Java, Apache and XML November 4 to 6, 2002, Munich

A new conference on Java and Web Services in Munich with internationally known speakers!

Munich: After the great success of JAX 2002 in Frankfurt the Software & Support Verlag now brings one of the most important conferences for the Internet and Enterprise computing to Munich- this time the emphasis is put on Enterprise Java and Web Services. The W-JAX conference, which is going to take place from November 4 to 6 in the Arabella Sheraton Grand Hotel, is mainly for Enterprise Java developers, Enterprise architects as well as IT project managers and will inform on the most important Internet and Enterprise computing technologies – Web Services, Java, Apache, XML – in many sessions and workshops with internationally known speakers.

Java and XML are today's most important technologies when it comes to Enterprise IT systems. If it concerns dynamic web applications or highly scalable eBusiness systems the Java technologies J2EE, J2SE or J2ME are indispensable. Together with XML Java based Enterprise applications build the ideal basis for the challenges of the Web Services world.

Web Services are far more than "the hype of the year". They give us the possibility to integrate distributed enterprise systems effectively and cheap. But the standards and strategies for Web Services are still young, which means that project managers, IT consultants, or trainers need founded information and the exchange of experience. "It's the combination of the most important Enterprise and Internet computing technologies which makes up the core of this conference. W-JAX provides all information IT professionals need for the use of these technologies and therefore prepares them for the present and future challenges.", says Sebastian Meyen, editor in chief of Java Magazin and XML & Web Services Magazin, and conference chair of W-JAX 2002.

W-JAX provides, just as JAX does in Frankfurt, the IT professionals with the necessary information. The conference is subdivided into a Power Workshop day on November 4, this day is for fulltime workshops with all kinds of special themes, and two main conference days on the November 5 and 6 with many sessions from which the participant can individually choose.

The speakers of the W-JAX conference are famous authors, trainers, and consultants like Peter Roßbach, Adam Bien, Andreas Holubek and many more.

With the W-JAX 2002 conference the Software & Support Verlag, which is located in Frankfurt, would like to underline its leading competences when it comes to the exchange of professional know-how and information for the IT industry. With its magazines, such as Java Magazin and XML & Web Services Magazin, its vast book repertoire, and its firm and established conference and training offering the Software & Support Verlag has gained the confidence of many readers and customers and therefore holds the pole position in the German market for information media.

More information on the W-JAX 2002 conference available under www.w-jax.com.

Software & Support Verlag GmbH- Information Power for IT Experts ! Magazines | Books | Conferences | Online

The Software & Support Verlag is the publisher of many different IT magazines.

Among the publications are Der Entwickler, Java Magazine, dot.net magazin, Linux Enterprise, PHP Magazin, XML & Web Services Magazin as well as a great amount of books for IT professionals.

In addition to that the media house which is located in Frankfurt, organizes conferences such as the EKON (conference for developers), the JAX- a conference on Java, Apache and XML, the W-JAX (W stands for Web Services), the dot.net Konferenz, the International PHP Conference as well as the Entwicklertage.

The programme of the Software & Support Verlag contains the whole range of professional IT. It is completed by its online service entwickler.com, which is one of the most frequently used online services for IT professionals.

Information: www.entwickler.com

eMail: info@entwickler.com

Questions on the Software & Support Verlag and on W-JAX 2002? Frank Stepan would be glad to answer them either by phone: 069 63 00 89 0, or by email: fstepan@entwickler.com.

Journalists, who participate in the W-JAX 2002 and would like to write on it, can accredit themselves under www.w-jax.de. Accommodation for accredited journalists will be paid by the organizer.